Central Jersey APICS Dinner Presentation
Supply Chain Management – – Still with Us After All These Years

The term and concept, Supply Chain Management, was introduced by a Booz Allen consultant during an interview over thirty years ago. It has evolved from a buzzword to a hard to understand concept to a proven roadmap offering organizations significant savings and revenue growth.

The dinner presentation on September 11 defines the Supply Chain Hierarchy of Evolution and discusses what organizations are doing to move through the various levels on their way to a “cradle-to-grave” or “cradle-to-cradle” fully integrated end-to-end network of organizations all focused on the ultimate customer.

Supply chain organizations are breaking down silos, causing collaboration, integrating sustainability, applying visibility, developing supply chain professionals, and managing their supply chains as the core of the business.

This is an opportunity to learn from the successes and mistakes of companies who are heavily involved in supply chain implementations. There will also be an added extra: a peek at what to expect next as supply chain management continues to evolve.

Marilyn Gettinger owns and manages the consulting firm, New Directions Consulting Group. Marilyn created the organization in 1993 with the mission to assist companies in making the most of their precious resources. She designs customized training programs and consulting services to support organizations that must change to meet the demands of the 21st century. Her workshops present theory and then relate that theory to meeting the challenges of the organization. Participants are encouraged to take on intra-company projects that address upgrading and reengineering of existing business and manufacturing processes. Her consulting services offer a team approach to streamlining existing processes using all of the skills and experiences of staff members. She has consulted with organizations to improve purchasing, inventory, and supply chain processes.

Marilyn helps promote other businesses through her involvement at both Bergen Community College and Kean University’s Small Business Development Center’s small business workshops. She holds a C.P.M., CPSM, an MBA from Fairleigh Dickinson University, and is certified in Materials Management from Bloomfield College.

Executive Message

We just closed a great chapter year including our summer Plant Tour at Con-Way Trucking, two half day seminars, nine Professional Development Meetings, and six CPIM education class.

This year, your chapter Board of Directors is working on making this 2013-2014 chapter year even greater! We have scheduled nine Professional Development Meetings, two plant tours, a Spring Workshop, a fall Pre-Dinner Presentation, and six CPIM education classes. For the details, check out our website APICS-CJer.org.

Looking for new ideas for improving your company or your personnel development, check out this year's chapter program. Come to a Professional Development Meetings and bring your co-workers along with your manager. With topics like Supply Chain Management, Post ERP Implementation, Distribution Inventory, Value Stream Mapping, Lean Culture, and Career Tips for Success, you will have many great ideas to take back to your employer.

Are you CPIM or CSCP certified? If not, why? Many of the participants are attending classes for personnel development and career insurance. When it comes to making decisions on whom to promote, retain, or hire, that CPIM or CSCP certification can make the difference.

If you are CPIM or CSCP certified, are you keeping up with your certification maintenance? You are required to re-certify every 5 years. One of the best methods to accomplish this is to be active in your local APICS chapter. Attend the monthly Professional Development Meetings, refresh your skills by attending a class or seminar, or volunteer to help on the Central Jersey Board of Directory.

Thanks,
Art Shaffer, CPIM,
Master CPIM Instructor
